DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 14-20 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 5.
2. Applicant's election without traverse of species II – figure 10, claims 1-13, in Paper No. 5 is acknowledged.

Claim Objections

3. Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: in line 18, the term "wave-like" renders the claim unclear. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claims 1, 5-7, 11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Mitsui et al. (5,418,635).

As to claims 1, 7, 13, Mitsui et al. discloses a process of forming a TFT –LCD device 20 having a transparent insulating substrate 11 wherein a transistor 21 is defined on the substrate. The process includes the steps of forming a photosensitive layer 15 on the substrate to cover the transistor and the substrate, performing a defocused exposing procedure by applying a mask 13 with plural spots 13b and a contact hole 29 with distance relative to the system as claimed. Further, the device includes the photosensitive layer 15 having a "wave-like" shape and has a contact hole where a portion of the photosensitive layer has been removed. The device has a pixel electrode 19 on the photosensitive layer 15 to connect the transistor 21. See figures 2, 4.

As to claims 5-6, 11-12, the independent spot patterns 13b are defined by the hollow areas on the mask 13 and by covering the area on the mask with chromium films. See figure 4 and col 7, line34.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. Claims 2-4, 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mitsui et al..

Mitsui et al.. discloses the invention substantially as claimed. However, Mitsui et al.. does not explicitly disclose a range for the sizes as well as the shapes of the independent spot patterns. Nonetheless, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the spot patterns of Mitsui et al.. with the particular sizes and shapes range, since it's prima facie obvious to an artisan's experimentation because applicant has not established any criticality for various sizes and shapes of the spot patterns.

The courts have concluded that a change in dimension, degree, size, shape, etc. without special functional significance is not patentable. Research Corp. v. Nasco Industries, Inc., 501 F2d 358; 182 USPQ 449 (CA 7), cert. denied 184 USPQ 193; USLW 3359 (1974), In re Rose, 105 USPQ 137, and In re Aller et al., 105 USPQ 233.

Also, note that the specification contains no disclosure of either the critical nature of the claimed dimensions of any unexpected results arising therefrom. Where patentability is aid to be based upon particular chosen dimensions or upon another variable recited in a claim, the applicant must show that the chosen dimensions are critical. (In re Woodruff, 919 F.2d 1575, 1578 (Fed. Cir. 1990).)

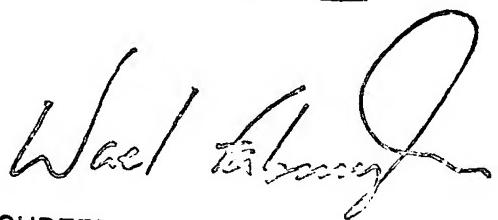

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Ogawa et al. (5011783) and Byun et al. (5917199) each discloses a process of forming a semiconductor device. See entire documents.
